

MISS GOOGINS' GIRL SCOFFS AT ELLIOTT ROOSEVELT'S COURTSHIP

MISS GOOGINS' SILENT REPORT

Fort Worth Girl Is Wellesley Grad, Visited by Elliott

Dallas, Tex., June 9 (AP)—Miss Ruth Googins, 25-year-old attractive Fort Worth beauty, declares there is no romance between her and Elliott Roosevelt, second son of the President.

Her statement came after Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, flying to Washington, D. C., after a short visit with Elliott on the Pacific Coast, declined to comment on the reported romance, saying:

"I really couldn't say anything about that. You see, Elliott still is married."

Young Roosevelt, general manager of a west coast airline, has established residence in Nevada so that his present wife, the former Elizabeth Donner of Philadelphia, may sue for divorce on grounds of incompatibility.

NO "TRIANGLE" ELEMENT

"I had refused to admit a formal separation until I had talked the whole thing over with my mother," he said yesterday. He added that both he and his wife disliked the idea of a divorce, but said they were "convinced it is the best thing for both of us."

He declared further that he was not in love with any other woman and that there was no "triangle" element involved. Mrs. Roosevelt stopped briefly in Fort Worth last night. Early in the day at Los Angeles, she had disclosed that her son and his wife planned a divorce. Her disclosure, made as she left a hotel in the plans for the national capital, was immediately confirmed by Elliott. Filing of the suit in Reno by Elliott's wife is expected to take place about July 15.

WELLESLEY GRADUATE

Miss Googins, a Wellesley College graduate, said her introduction to the President's son was in Dallas and that they had been invited to several gatherings in Fort Worth. She then said:

"I think it is too bad to have all of this stirred up about nothing. We just happened to meet Young Roosevelt stopped in Fort Worth to attend a rodeo last March, en route to Tucson, Ariz. Miss Googins said she did not see Elliott's mother when she stopped there on her return trip."

The Dallas News, in an editorial article, said "the President's son, after meeting Miss Googins, went West, but returned several days later to Fort Worth to spend his weekend. He was seen in Miss Googins' company during those visits."

Miss Googins said she had not seen him in "five or six weeks," and that to her knowledge he had not been in Fort Worth in that time.

Miss Googins' father, the late John B. Googins, was for many years Texas manager of the Googins Company.

William H. Donner, of Villaville, Pa., Mrs. Roosevelt's father, a millionaire former steel man, said that if and when he heard the statement, he would see the public got it.

Young Roosevelt Disclaims Love Affair

Los Angeles, June 9 (AP)—Elliott Roosevelt could not be reached here for a statement on the article in the Dallas, Tex., News indicating a romance between him and Miss Ruth Googins, a Fort Worth girl.

Earlier in the day young Roosevelt, in commenting on the divorce plans, emphatically declared there is no "triangle element" in the case.

"I want to make it clear," he said, "that I am not in love with any other woman. I am going to devote all my energy to making good in my life without relation."

As if the Upkeep Were Not Enough!

Brazinska, Turkey, June 9 (AP)—There is one sign of prosperity which is drawing the hordes of menfolk here. The price of wives is going up. Parents who used to demand only $100 from suitors now demand from $200 to $500—$250 for their plainest daughter and $500 for their prettiest.

CHOCOLATE GIRL ENDS LIFE CHASING BROADWAY

Jerie Rogers, Her Love Dream Shattered, Dives to Death

New York, June 9—Her married night club owning sweetheart, "Joe G." couldn't make her a June bride, so Jerie Rogers, 24, one of the first natural platinum blondes to make a Broadway stage hit, chose to make herself a June suicide. Joe jumped from the 13th floor of the Hotel Lincoln at dawn yesterday.

In letters she forgot to mail, the former specialty girl of Ed Wynn's "The Laugh Parade" revealed she could no longer endure to live when she discovered that her sweetheart's love was more lasting than her Broadway fame.

"FAITHLESS" BROADWAY.

And in the first of her notes she bitterly denounced faithless Broadway:

"Please don't let Broadway swoon over me, or I should say so and so from Broadway, touch anything of mine."

"I only had one friend, Frieda Mierse. Also never worked for any one as sweet as Ed Wynn. He is one hell of a swell person, believe me. I was in love with Rudy Weiss because I found it out too late. But, girls, I was not so wrong. He is a sweet person."

Frieda Mierse won the title "Miss New York" in 1927 and became one of Broadway's best known beauties in Ziegfeld and other shows.

Roxy Ed Wynn and other Broadway celebrities were mentioned frequently in letters the blonde beauty wrote to "Joe G." whose name she misspelled as "Joe". She called the sweetheart who forgot her "My everything."

HER "EVERYTHING"

One letter to "Joe" read: "I have done plenty of foolish things. I drank for three months night and day. I got into my head. I stopped when I was almost fired three times. A kind stage manager was kind enough to let me quit when I realized—DRINKING! I hate the word DRINKING!"

"Friends have been amazed that I didn't hear from me, especially Uncle Sam. Oh, how I dislike him. I think there was an increase in their family."

"I am a Californian now, I am sure now. Your ears must have heard because I was talking about you. My arms are open wide for you. I am always thinking of you, my dear, my sweet baby. Sweet dreams. Your everything."

BECAME SPECIALITY HIT

Jerie's is the old, old drama, perennially repeated on Broadway, the one drama of which Broadway never tires.

She was Miss Mildred Betts, pretty daughter of the Bettles of Williamsport, Pa. In a beauty contest she was acclaimed the fairest daughter of Williamsport. She came here and was the prettiest of new number in a long time for a few weeks.

She became Jerie Rogers, specialty hit in "The Laugh Parade" and "A Little Rascals." A night club owner, a big show in the night club, and won her. Happy in her new life, she turned her back on fame and returned the snub. Then love failed.

Detroy Betts, the girl's brother, identified her body here yesterday. It was he who identified "Joe" as a married night club owner, former services will be conducted in his home. Mrs. Rogers, Mildred visited only two weeks ago.

"I did not know that she was in distress and am deeply grieved," Ed Wynn commented. "I am sorry she did not get in touch with me, because I gladly would have been of service to her."

The girl left an emerald wrap, other expensive clothing, and $30 in the bank.

"TACKS" HARDWICK GIVES UP DAUGHTER

With a Reno court slated to officially separate Huntington R. "Tacks" Hardwick, former all-round Harvard athlete, and his wife, the former Margaret Stone, it was revealed today the couple have agreed for the wife to retain custody of their 16-year-old daughter. The Reno suit is to be based on grounds of incompatibility. The former athlete and the daughter of the late Galt Stone and Mrs. Stone were married at Marion in July, 1913. Photo shows Mrs. Hardwick playing tennis, one of her favorite sports. The former star athlete is shown below.

MRS. HARDWICK TO KEEP CHILD

Margaret Stone Hardwick, 16-year-old daughter of Huntington R. "Tacks" Hardwick, will remain with her mother, daughter of the late Galt Stone, when the divorce is granted Mrs. Hardwick on the ground of incompatibility.

That was the decision today of the couple who were the center of a brilliant society wedding 18 years ago at the estate of Mrs. Hardwick's father in Marion, Cape Cod.

Hardwick, former star athlete and football coach at Harvard, took entire blame for the parting of the ways in a statement that was distributed to the press. He regretted by each and finds me extremely sorry.

Hardwick is now a Boston business man, but four years ago led an expedition aboard his wife's palatial steam yacht, Arcadia, to the Salapague Islands. The couple made their home for many years at 364 Buckminster rd., Brookline.

AMHERST BOYS PAY FLAG FINE

Northampton, June 9 (AP)—Five Amherst College freshmen today were allowed to withdraw pleas of not guilty and to plead nolo to charges of publicly mutilating and treating contemptuously the flag of the United States. George Gillette, 18, of Kerkulter, Ill., was fined $25 and Robert Lawrence, 17, and Roger R. Wundtlicher, 18, both of New York City, were fined $20 each.

Charges against Henry Stanton, Jr., 18, of Providence, R. I., and Vernon Hall, 17, of Montpelier, N. J., were dismissed because of lack of prosecution.

Disposition of the case was arranged in a conference of more than a hour between Judge Mason, Dist. Atty. Bartlett, and Attorney B. H. Thompson. The five youths were arraigned in connection with a recent mock Communist demonstration at which a small flag was burned.

Coast Guard Captain Suicide at Chatham

Chatham, June 9 (AP)—The body of Rufus R. Ryder, 35, of the Old Harbor Coast Guard station was found today, a bullet in the temple and a service pistol clutched in his hand.

The body was found in connection with his failure to return to the station after a visit to his home last night. The body was found in a truck. Ryder had driven five miles from his home. Yesterday he was notified his wish to remain in the service had been granted.

Another Point for Radio Salesmen

One advantage of having a radio in your car is that you can hear a policeman whistle when you are speeding. The pie saving Lester Henderson of Abington from a charge of failing to stop for a red light was a result of his hearing a police whistle in Quincy court today.

NEW VOICE TO TYNE TO FIGHT BE FINAL, SAYS MRS. CLIFF

Dancer Says There'll Be No Revoking of Decree She Seeks

She had her divorce only six months ago and then changed her mind as to whether she would sue for divorce. Mrs. Cliff, former stage and night club dancer, is going to divorce Warren R. Cliff, a dancer.

Cliff, who served a term in New Jersey for manslaughter for slaying his first wife, Betty Bahbitz, who was killed by a car while driving less than a year of an eight year sentence, is now fighting an attempt to send him back to New Jersey for violation of the parole terms.

Last December, the second Mrs. Cliff of New York, who married Cliff in May a year ago, obtained a divorce on the grounds of cruel and abusive treatment and (testifying that he had threatened to kill her just as he had killed his first wife).

Only two months ago Mrs. Cliff went into Middlesex Probate Court and asked that the decree be revoked, inasmuch as she and her husband had since been reconciled. Judge Campbell revoked the decree.

She had her counsel, Joseph Klarfeld of Boston, revealed that he will file another divorce suit for the dancer, with charges covering the same grounds.

If Mrs. Cliff obtains this divorce, Klarfeld said, it will be final and there will be no more reconciliations.

They Used Soap for a Clean Get-Away

Clean hands, the lime as correctly as a 25 watch may record it, and the theft of four scale weights were all that thieves could hope to gain today from a break in the office of the Everett Iron and Steel Company, Second St., Everett. They took a tin of hand soap, the 25 watch and the scale weights when no other valuables could be found.

Bill Would End All Third Degrees

Alleged brutality of police in "third degree" methods will be ended tomorrow by the measure of Rep. Owen Gallagher. If the measure is passed by the Legislature.

3 Saw Way Out of Jail; Recaptured

IMMEDIATE WAR ON RACKETEERS IS URGED

Washington, June 9 (U.S.)—With Democratic leaders pressing for adjournment of Congress Saturday night, Senator Copeland (D) of New York, last night made a vigorous demand for passage of his resolution for a special senatorial investigation of the racketeering evil. Through the Senate commerce committee has unanimously approved the Copeland resolution, it is tied up in the audit and control committee, headed by Senator Byrnes (D) of South Carolina. As it calls for an appropriation of $250,000 from the contingent expense fund of the Senate, the Byrnes committee must pass on it. Appointment of three members of the commerce committee, Senator Copeland, chairman; Murphy (D) of Iowa and Vandenberg (R) of Michigan, to make a sweeping investigation of racketeering on interstate commerce, is provided for in the resolution. Byrnes said before Congress adjourns his committee will meet and probably act on the Copeland resolution, which has the backing of civic organizations and business groups all over the country.

MRS. SNOW AID CHEERS OFFICER

Dismissed from the Boston police department as a burglar, bedridden for weeks and facing criminal prosecution, former Patrolman Michael V. Waldron nevertheless today looks to the future with confidence because of the moral support of two women. They are his wife, mother of his six children, and Mrs. Frederick E. Snow, Back Bay, society matron whose husband is one of Boston's most prominent attorneys. As Waldron, suffering with a broken ankle, lies on a cot in Brooks Hospital, Brookline, both women are working to procure his exoneration from charges that caused his dismissal with Patrolman Ralph L. Cohen. Mrs. Snow revealed her faith in the former police officer by admitting she had him removed from the City Hospital to Brooks Hospital where she is paying his bills, and also aiding his family.

Youth Held in Killing

Nashville, Tenn., June 9 (AP)—A nationwide search for Ralph MacDonald, 17, wanted in Flint, Mich., in connection with the slaying of his wealthy widowed mother, Mrs. Grace R. MacDonald, ended here when a youth held on federal charges admitted to police that he was the missing son. Denying that he killed his mother, who was found in bed with her skull crushed the morning of May 27, young MacDonald said that he "nursed" with her "practically all the night before" and decided to run away.

He last saw his mother about 1 a. m. the day she was found dead, he told the chief, although it was three hours later that he left home with one of his mother's machines and $50 he had taken from her purse.

Unclad Man Found in Blue Hills

It wasn't a monkey at all—it wasn't even a practical joke that Milton police sought all last week in the Blue Hills Reservation. It was the very much unclad Fred J. Dalton, 21, who was far removed from his usual habitat in Forest Hills st. Jamaica Plain, they charged today. Dalton was arrested yesterday without even so much as the leopard skin that is familiar to a Tartan or other denizen of the wild. Police charged. Calls through the week told of monkeys, wild men, maniacs and even a phantom Indian. Police considered the calls the work of a practical joker until they rounded up Dalton.

The administration of his father, particularly in regard to compensation of war veterans, will soon be debated by James Roosevelt, eldest son of President Roosevelt.

His first opponent, according to indications today, will be Peter W. Pate, Massachusetts commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Commander Pate asked the President's son to name the time, the place and the terms of such a debate, which was first proposed by young Roosevelt Wednesday night, when remarks of speakers in a Newton school brought a flood of anger to his cheeks.

ROOSEVELT PLEA FOR BIG REPEAL VOTE

All citizens of Massachusetts were urged to go to the polls next Tuesday and vote on the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment in order to secure a "true expression of the people," by James Roosevelt, son of the President, in his weekly broadcast over Station WJAC.

He spoke neither for nor against repeal during the course of his 12th weekly talk, but urged every voter to recognize his duty and cast his ballot.

He also revealed that two of his coming weekly talks would be devoted to accounts of the vacation cruise which he and his younger brothers will take with their father aboard the Americk II after the adjournment of Congress. The broadcasts will be made from whatever port the presidential party is at on the particular occasion, he said.

The remainder of his address was devoted to a resume of the activities of the special session of Congress, now nearing adjournment. He went to the early days of March when the bank holiday was declared and the emergency session of Congress was called and detailed what they had accomplished since that time.

In closing he pointed out that the swift action of Congress and the emergency measures which have been passed have succeeded in restoring the public confidence and bringing the realization that only individual initiative is now required to restore good times.

State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley paid a visit to Morgan Memorial today and was personally conferred through the various departments of the industrial charity by Dr. A. Verette and Mr. Fred C. Moore.

Mr. Hurley was particularly interested in the reconstruction work of not only the waste material that is contributed by the general populace of Massachusetts but the creating of employment for 300 men and women have been employed daily in the industrial workshop while an average sum paid during each week to those persons amounts to $200.

In explaining the work that Morgan Memorial is doing for the children of the South End, Moore said that at the present time the directors were endeavoring to raise money for the summer camp work. Mr. Moore stated the sum of $25 will take care of a child for the entire season.

Through this summer camp work Morgan Memorial is endeavoring to

True to Type . . . Someone Else Gets Writer's Hundred

By Gilbert Seldes

I am not $50 richer than I was on the first of May nor $125 richer than I was on the first of March; if I had owned my share of stocks (and the right stocks, to be sure) I would have taken my share of the gain in stock values during these months; the total is twelve thousand million dollars since the banks closed. If I had operated as the majority of those in the market I would not have borrowed a lot of money for speculation; I would have used cash. If I had a memory—as most speculators have not—I would remember that in one day of the market crash in 1929 sixteen billions in values were wiped out—and it has taken three months to bring back twelve billion. Still I would be happy. And the fact that there must be several hundred people like myself who have not been in the market and have not taken their share of the stock gains—that merely adds to the fun for those who have bought and sold and held on, and also adds to the amount of their individual gains. Someone has my share. Someone is welcome to it.

The wealth of the farmers has also risen in this time; "theoretical" wealth, of course, but indexes are made up of theoretical gains, and some farmers must be happy. The sun of prosperity, according to most sound economists, is rising, commencing to rise. There is a little catch in it for the people who have to pay higher prices while they are still out of work, but, as signs go, it is a dependable one. And in the past three months we have had it.

If you want to keep alive you had better stay married and stay on the master side of the Mississippi river. Dr. Frederick L. Hoffman, who usually surveys the rise and decline of the suicide rate, has this year published his analysis and pointed out that those who are divorced commit suicide twice as frequently as the widowed three times as often as the married.

As for geography, the 10 cities in the United States with the highest rate of self-destruction among the citizenry are all on the western side—in the State of Iowa, California, Washington, Nebraska, Colorado and Oregon. Of the 10 lowest cities New England has six. New York two, Pennsylvania one, Illinois one and the West only one.

If a few of my fellow-writers in the Hearst papers and one or two gentlemen from scattered counties will join me I shall form a little club, with the handy name of the Early Birds, or Those Who Weren't Scared of Inflation Seven Months Ago. We could change the title every month, this making a lot of business for printers and engravers. We would hold weekly dinners in which we would invite some of the experts and commentators who were so sure that the triumph of the age was remaining on the gold standard in 1932 and who were also sure that if we went off we would go heading into ruin.

I note a number of them quite seriously assuring me that we are not in danger of annihilation now. Being human, they frequently say that, of course, we could not have gone off earlier on the theory that if a man is sick you have to bring him to the point of death before you can try drastic surgery of a good tonic.

G. C. P. GHEERED BY WET VOTE

Republican wetts today rejoiced at the unexpected action of the state committee, meeting in Worcester, yesterday, with 67 of 88 members present, passing a unanimous resolution urging the electors of repeal delegates to the constitutional convention.

The resolution was passed swiftly and without opposition, despite the presence of several former active prohibitionists among the members of the committee. The action was hailed as a big victory in view of the prediction that the party leaders would once again "straddle" the question.

Chairman Carl A. Terry of the State committee, at the banquet of the Worcester County Republican Party, declared last night that the party had taken a firm stand on the repeal issue and could now develop sound economic policies and a strong State ticket for the 1934 election.

Last night, Gaspar G. Bacon considered the party's strongest candidate for governor, also spoke at the banquet. He gave great credit to the Roosevelt administration for its achievements up to the present time, but predicted trouble ahead on the taxation question.

No More TIRE BLOWOUTS

a marvelous—a patented invention—Superlastic Cords—makes ALLSTATE TIRES *UNBLOWABLE

All Tire Prices May Jump Any Day—Order Your New Tires Now and Save Real Money.

25% to 30% More Stretch than stiff-side Tires . . . (hence No "Blowout Zone") . . . yet priced under other standard balloons

NO longer any need to expose yourself, or to risk your friends and loved ones to accident, injury and death from a tire blowout. For Sears—the ALLSTATE Balloon—now gives the world an "Unblowable tire!"

Every maker of other standard tires has tried to do likewise. They have added extra plies, made rubber tougher, treads heavier. But tires have continued to blow out.

Meanwhile, Sears demonstrated that STRETCH—not strength alone—was the secret of conquering blowouts. The reason is this—when a car's in motion, tires flex constantly. If a tire lacks stretch, the cords hinge up and down, weaken and fray in the sidewalls, creating there a "Blowout Zone." Some moment, when you least expect, BANG goes the tire—with tragic results. And it's not through the tread, but through sides that 95% of the blowouts occur.

LOOK AT THE INSURANCE RECORDS. WHENEVER YOU DRIVE OVER 35 YOU ARE BETTING YOUR LIFE ON YOUR TIRES

Here a wholly new cord was invented for ALLSTATE Balloons—a patented Superlastic Cord—with 25% to 30% more stretch than average. It makes the ALLSTATE "give" on the sides as it flexes. Preserves the cord intact for thousands and thousands of miles.

This abolishes the "Blowout Zone"—makes ALLSTATE unbellowable under all normal road conditions. Of course any tire can be blown out eventually if driven into holes in the pavement, or under-inflated. But ordinary caution is all that ALLSTATE requires. It kept inflated at our specified air pressure of 32 pounds, or more, or even within 15% of it, you can drive ALLSTATE with utter safety at any touring speed till the tread is worn smooth.

As a double protection, they're built with a wonderful Intra-woven Shock-Breaker under the tread. It sheds from blows at high speeds—a 20% stronger than 2 extra plies or breaker strips!

* ALLSTATE Tires, if kept inflated at our specified air pressure of 32 pounds, or more, or within 15% of it, will not blow out under normal road conditions, before the tread is worn smooth.

Why ALLSTATE Balloons Do Not Blow Out
Due to the Superlastic Cords having 25% to 30% more stretch than the average, the sides "give" thus relieving strain when the ALLSTATE flexes.

Curve indicates arch flex of ALLSTATE, due to Superlastic Cords.

Jimmie Plunges Into Press Work

London, June 9 (AP)—James J. Walker, former mayor of New York, engaged by the International News Service to report the World Economic Conference for the Boston Evening American and other Hearst papers, plunged into his job as correspondent today.

"I have no other plans but to devote my entire time to writing the conference," Walker said.

"I appreciate the importance of the conference and I also appreciate the responsibility of my work of interpreting it," he said.

Nevertheless, Walker, who is "clinging" to many of Britain's most important men, hopes to find time to "renew" his acquaintance with Prime Minister MacDonald and others whom he met in the past.

BOOKS---And Other Things

By Charles Hanson Towne

Ours being discouraged and bored with the jokes appearing in the paper, I wrote to the editor of the paper, remembering being advised by a friend that I would get back my faith, and would smile again. I skipped an issue now and then. For, he said, no periodical, like no other, is so much read and so much scintillating all the time. (As those who read our columns know.) The paper was not only approved, but a friend (in the pages of the) did patter growl when I was brief while. One minute to deal with the jokes, and the next minute, as they are necessarily on and taken off. The fifteen minutes allotted to So-and-So can be cut down to five minutes, and fifteen and a half. We can all see our timepieces by these authors. The paper is not only read, but that is an advantage, now that central is no longer permitted to take up the time, volume of the exact hour.

I have refused to submit to island-dramas when I am in to happen to prefer books and records. I have been told that I am enough to call upon me to the island, or even the orchestra. I have been told that I am enough to call upon me to the island, or even the orchestra. I have been told that I am enough to call upon me to the island, or even the orchestra.

I think I had strength of character enough to know when to turn away from the little pieces of mental which I began to lose with Everything, but I fear the lure of certain performers like Ed Wynn, though crones like Bronx contraltos would never be able to cast their spell over me. Lecturers bore me no end, sometimes I miss Miss Anglin & Madame Aida; yet I know that if I succumbed to them regularly I should weakly await the next program and lose some valuable time in the process, which might be spent to better Advantage.

And I do not think the time ever arrives when, Jones, I realize that I am, I can be thrilled by a mystery drama. I can't sit on old Tuesdays or on old Thursdays nights. I don't believe a word of this business of entertainment. I refer to shudder when I hear of a slammed or a lady scorned. William's loud verbal outbursts move me not at all; and as for the "scream," I remain cold and hard and strangely aloof. I don't believe they are going on these faraway court studies. I visualize all the silly paraphernalia all the devices invented for good and I amia tolerantly when I suppose I should be sitting on the edge of my chair, or trying to fall into a swoon. I am not alone in my feeling of disaster. Therefore, I cannot listen at a radio now.

I am always optimistic. I would like to "show" that there is hope for a poor suburbanite on every avenue in the business. Thought and money have been poured upon it—that I know.

I am charitable enough to wish the unseen actors success in their attempt at pleasing the masses. I am invariably sorry failures.

The truth is that the radio, all other forms of entertainment should know restricted hours, and there never can be sufficient time to fill it. The use of radio in the home and in the internment would greatly enhance the pleasure of those who listen to it.

When will this industry learn its lesson? Never. I fear it will merely run headlong upon its rails and finally fall off a precipice. Copyright will kill it. It is too much of a good thing.

THIS IS LIFE 'Advisory Family Doctor' Idea Might Fill Long-Felt Need

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

DR. CHANNING FROTHINGHAM'S recent address before the Massachusetts Medical Society dealt with matters of serious interest to every family in this country. He said, you will remember, that what the American family needs especially is an advisory physician, who shall act principally as diagnostician.

Dr. Frothingham made it plain that this does not necessarily mean a return to the old family doctor, who used to be our mammy.

"The general practitioner is disappearing, which is only just, for diagnosis and therapeutic measures have progressed to the point that no one individual could possibly be able to carry them out acceptably," he said. "Men acting as family medical advisors would have the complete physical and mental background of the patient in mind and should go with the patients to specialists when the care of the specialist is indicated."

Dr. Frothingham suggested, however, that specialists should be rigorously examined, to prevent physicians calling themselves such without proper qualifications. Although the speaker did not say so, it might not be a bad idea to require a higher degree of the specialist, something equivalent to the Ph.D. in other fields. Obviously a specialist ought to be a research man in addition to his general medical knowledge.

This recommendation gives rise to a good many reflections. For one thing, will this doubling up all along the line mean a double fee for every patient? If not, does it not involve that practice called fee-splitting, which is one of the acknowledged scandals of the specialist racket today?

The problem of adequate medical care is weighing more and more heavily upon the middle class, particularly on the white-collar professional and semi-professional class of moderate means. The rich can take care of themselves, even to affording the elaborate luxury hospitals, run like hotels, which have become so much a matter of course.

For the poor there are clinics and the free or very inexpensive services of very able physicians. Although there is a beginning made towards providing inexpensive hospitalization for the middle class, as at the Massachusetts General, the growing practice of turning over all sorts of fairly simple matters to specialists is hard on the middle class budget.

Nor does the recent proposal to socialize the medical profession completely, centering the whole thing around the hospital, seem to fill the bill. For one thing it spells the doom of the general practitioner and, in spite of what Dr. Frothingham says, there are many of us who believe that the younger "general" needs a lot more encouragement than he is getting now. His fee is moderate, he knows the family conditions and resources, and he is perfectly capable of handling most cases that come up in the ordinary run of family life.

He seems to be giving way, especially in the cities, to what is called the "group method." A number of specialists in various branches of medicine and surgery will club together in spacious offices. Perhaps one of them will be a general practitioner. It is apparently his business to hand his patient on to one of his colleagues. The suspicious patient often feels that an effort is being made to hand him round to as many of the group as possible—something like a medicine ball. The procedure is likely to be pretty expensive in the end.

Dr. Frothingham raises an interesting point when he says that the present fashion of limiting admissions to the good medical schools may find us, one of these days, with an inadequate supply of doctors.

Would it be possible, I wonder, to offer courses strictly for general practitioners and let down the bars somewhat to properly qualified men? Then make admission to specialists' practice dependent on an advanced course, comparable to the Ph.D. course, plus a certain number of years in general practice before the Medical Association would license the applicant as a specialist. And, finally, let the Medical Association through a competent personnel bureau, keep the field of town and rural medical practice surveyed and do its best to place young general practitioners in communities and districts where there are obviously not enough doctors to serve the population. That may be already done, more than I know. Certainly the idea is capable of being extended.

The patient wants to be treated as an individual. That is why he clings to the general practitioner, even though he may not be so competent as he might be. In a clinic or hospital he is a name on a case card. In a busy specialist's office, where often there is no adequate preliminary diagnosis, he is only too often just another case. There is where Dr. Frothingham's suggestion is most wholesome. A family doctor, like a family lawyer—perhaps a bit more limited in his scope than formerly—will give the long familiarity and personal attention the patient wants and, psychically speaking, needs. It might lead eventually, to paying your family medical advisor a yearly salary to keep from getting ill. The Chinese, we are told, do it. Darned clever, these Chinese.

INHERITS $500,000, QUILTS AS SCHOOL HEAD

300 UNAWARE OF FIRE AT FILM SHOW

More than 300 patrons of the Weymouth Theater learned for the first time today why the show was not short last night and that a movie operator and a brainless fire lieutenant proved themselves big.

Fire in the projection room that threatened to grow into explosion proportions, was halted by Robert Bullock, 25, of Randolph st., South Weymouth, the operator, and Lieut. David P. Thompson of Braintree, who was spending his night off at the show.

Bullock, in spite of serious burns about the face, jumped from the booth, held the door against the spread of the flames.

Lieut. Thompson, sensing trouble when the house lights were turned on ran to the small balcony to find Bullock in his battle against the flames.

With fire extinguishers he checked the flames to a point where firemen could confine the blaze to the booth.

The audience left the theater under the impression that the show was over.

Pique in Favor for Coming Season

The piques that bloom the Summer have many imaginative "faces" — they've gone imaginative! This simple type of other years has been replaced by flocks of novelty weaves, fanciful and fresh. Some are finely striped or checked, others are wide wale, diamond blocked, cord, walled or with tweedy surfaces. This development of a once comparatively simple fabric is a direct outcome of the cotton age we are passing through.

Various types of pique trim the heartiest town clothes, make evening dresses and jackets, Summer suits, polo or tennis dresses, beach robes, bath, gloves, scarfs and even shoes. Face to face with everything in your closet, it is possible to visualize practically everything around the clock from morning to afternoon, with informal parties included at night.

Both mother and daughter are loyal to pique. In today's sketches the material is laid, dressed for marketing or porch visiting, wears a fine ribbed cotton morning dress or a simple evening dress, a tiny scalloped blouse and skirt lend a decorative touch that saves it from severity and makes it suitable even for afternoon. Besides being fashionable, the material lends as easily as a time handkerchief. It looks like new with each trip through the wash.

Daughter's white sport dress, shown at right, keeps her cool and unfrustrated through the day. It is as sheer and lightweight! It is made of finely ribbed, dropped-pleat jersey pique. A full yoke and inverted pleat in the back of the blouse, shirring over the bust and a skirt with large rummy pleats give her freedom of movement for driving, golf or whatever else her active life requires. The tie, buttons and wide patent leather belt are of good quality. One of these days and day-out dresses. Some pique suits every wardrobe is the order of this fashion day.

She Asks Him to Call Less Frequent

By HELEN ROWLAND.

DAYLIGHT SAVING has brought the marriage-rate, by giving a man less time to make a fool of himself, under the molting influence of a June moon.

Somehow, a woman always feels a lot younger when she is getting enough to buy her clothes in the Misses' Department.

No man can stand his wife's constant stand how a girl may be fed. Helen Rowland up on knees, plotting and flattery—and at the same time be "starving for love."

There are times, when even a patient man gets a tired of hearing the old, familiar sound of accusations, that he wishes some brand new crime to commit, just for the sake of variety.

Objects to His Attentions to Others

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I am in love with a young man who is divorced from his wife. I also am happily married. I go out occasionally with him, and he seems anxious to see me when possible. The problem is that I believe he is going with another woman, and he denies it.

Dear Wondering: You haven't told me how long you have been divorced or not, my dear, and if you aren't, you're hardly in a position to object to the young man's attentions to others.

WONDERING:

I am so ashamed of him, because he really doesn't know what he's talking about half the time. He won't read; he just acts as if he were inspired, and his business has gone. His what my brother calls a "button-hole." Looking back, I wonder why I married this fellow.

Then I knew, I wanted to dramatize myself with a wedding, and I picked out the easiest man of my acquaintance to get. I just have to put all this on paper, or go crazy.

Now, my dear, I'm not going to sermonize on this theme. I've had too many letters on the subject. But please, please don't repeat the pattern in a small size for her baby's crib. IN OLDEN TIMES the needlewoman who made a quilt, pleasing in pattern for her own bed, would repeat the pattern in a small size for her baby's crib. Today, where we strive for harmony in our decorative accessories, we do well to copy the ways of the quilter of the past, and like her, make a crib quilt for a baby in a baby size pattern.

The Dutch Windmill, that ever popular design, is equally lovely in the crib size pattern. Though considerably smaller than the block for the adult quilt, the patches are of a good size and can be easily handled. Either pattern may be ordered separately. Prices of each pattern 10c; 2 for 18c.

The pattern comes with you with complete simple instructions for cutting, sewing and finishing together with yardage chart, diagram of quilt to help arrange the blocks for single and double bed, and a diagram of block.

IN THE LOW, RAMBLING WHITE-SHINGLED house of the Donald Moffats on Leverett st., Brookline, set back among century old trees, the fair daughter of the house of Alexander White Moffat, Miss Marian, made her bow to society yesterday afternoon . . .

Very sweet and lovely was she as she received in a blue tulle frock of mousseline de silk, in her hands an old-fashioned bouquet of blue and pink carnations . . . her mother, who was at her side, wore a flowered mousseline with ruffled cape . . . they greeted their hundreds of friends on the broad terrace which surrounds the house overlooking the gardens . . . an ideal day, warm and sunny.

Tea was laid out in the charming old dining-room of this beautiful house which boasts an existence of over a hundred years, and is filled with precious antiques . . . the color scheme was blue and gold and ivory and the long table was laid with silver and crystal, a huge silver bowl in the center being filled with yellow, white and blue garden flowers.

Dancing was enjoyed in the oak paneled gallery where hang the Moffat ancestors, a two-story addition to the original house which was formerly on the Lee estate . . . Jack Marchand and his dancing orchestra provided the sweet strains of music . . .

Miss Marian's aunt, Mrs. Donald Moffat, who was one of the hostesses, was gracious in a grey silk as she assisted in receiving . . . or stammered about among the many small tables which were dotted about under large umbrellas in the garden . . . a lovely country-side picture . . .

Five Generations Attend

THERE WERE FIVE GENERATIONS of Moffats present on this auspicious occasion . . . Mrs. Joseph E. Baker, great-grandmother of the debutante, 92 years young, was in a handsome black silk, wearing a tiny white lace cap of rare charm . . . Mrs. William Emerson, maternal grandmother, was also present in a beige silk with which she carried a soft feather fan . . .

Mrs. Robert Winsor of Weston, cousin of the debutante, was seen wearing the neutral grey of the mode with a black hat with flowers . . . a touch of red at the girdle gave a youthful touch to this very pretty matron who looks far too young to be the mother of four sturdy children . . .

Mrs. Harold Ross, another aunt of the debutante, was in a rose flowered chiffon as she chatted with Miss Marian a younger sister, Miss Frances, tall and pretty, who will be presented two years hence . . . and little Miss Edith and Harriet Moffat, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Moffat, and Miss Faith, another daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Moffat, who were all gracing the occasion in light summer silks . . . it was a garden wedding in every sense of the word.

At the tea table was Mary Holcombe, a flower of this season's bouquet, looking very lovely in pink tulle and wearing a large pink hat . . .

Catherine Richardson in Red and White

PEGGY (MARGARET) NYE wore the fashionable fuchsia shade with a large black hat, and Catherine Richardson was in a red and white printed silk with large white hat . . . the large-brimmed hats are certainly very coming to these young maidens . . .

Byrshire Taylor was in a yellow and black tulle with hat to match, and Helen Cotton was in the same brown shades with matching hat . . . all of these girls assisted the guests with tea, and other delicacies . . .

Among those who had come out and gotten their man was Miss Alice Means, who was snapped by the camera with her fiancé, Mr. Harold Mills . . . There were many of this year's debutantes to greet their sisterhood . . . we glimpsed Eleanor Shaw, in deep blue with shade hat . . . Mary Strong in brown and white . . . Virginia Wells in pale blue with large white hat . . . Susan Means in cream lace, red belt and black hat, and Dorothy West in red and white, with her mother, Mrs. George S. West, in hyacinth blue . . .

Abigail Aldrich Among Pourers

ASTRID RICE, WHO HAS ALREADY been seen at many parties, was present in a blue flowered dress and large hat, and we saw Miss Betsey Byron of Wellesley escorted by John A. Remick, a good-looking swain . . . also noted among the latter were Freddy Fish, Robert Portner and Frank Sommer, Harvard youths with a following.

Abigail Aldrich was one of the pourers, and we saw Julie Previtt, Winsor School graduate and future Vassar student, in the huge throng which poured into the Moffat gardens to welcome pretty Marian Moffat into the social spotlight . . .

Returning to town, we stopped for a cooling drink at the fascinating Brunswick Outdoor Cafe, so Parisian with its blue and white awnings and gay potted plants . . . many minds with the same hot day thought were there before us, we glimpsed Mrs. Malcolm French in a flowered summer silk with Mrs. Adolph Leeds, in chic black, and Mrs. McDermott of West Cedar st. in black and white sport ensemble . . . Mrs. French is enjoying the ocean breezes of Cohasset from the broad veranda of her beautiful summer home, and will later motor on to the World's Fair in Chicago . . .

Mrs. Charles Barnard Prince has taken Yonder Farm at Dublin, N. H., for the summer, the summer home of Mrs. S. Parker Bremer, who will spend the season at her home in Brimmer st., when she is not in Cohasset . . . Mrs. T. Handy-side Cabot will open her lovely place in Dublin this summer, after several years spent abroad.

Dempsey Hopes to Follow Rickard As Ace Promoter. Sharkey, Primo In Shape Now. Corbett Missed.

By JACK CONWAY

Yankee Stadium, New York, June 9.—Jack Dempsey was seated in the press row with Deputy Boxing Commissioner Dan Skilling when I tripped down to the ring. The former champion gave me a large "Hello" and looked as happy as a child who did the night he killed Al Lips. When I remarked that the public had made a real response to his first major efforts as a promoter in New York.

"I guess I'll stick around the town," remarked Dempsey. "I like being a promoter. Maybe some day I shall be as good a promoter as Tex Rickard."

Being Commissioner War walked over to congratulate Dempsey on the success of his promotion. War is one of the most courageous men in public life. He comes from Binghamton, and was named a boxing commissioner when James A. Farley was named postmaster-general. I chatted with the commissioner as he had dinner at the Hotel Forest with Mrs. War and a party of friends which included Charley Husted. War first attracted national attention when as chairman of the licensing committee of the New York athletic commission he refused to grant a license to Tex Rickard and Madison Square Garden to stage a Dempsey-Tunney bout in 1924.

"I thought Wills was entitled to the crack at Dempsey, and would not stand for any other match," the commissioner told me. "There was a great deal of talk to the effect that the bankers would force me to change my honest opinion, but they didn't. In fact the bankers were so sure I would stand on my original vote they never asked me to alter it. Neither did Rickard."

Jack Sharkey and Primo Carnera at Ringside

Jack Sharkey came down from Orangeburg, N. Y., for the bout, while Primo Carnera motored in from Pompton Lake, N. J. Both men are about ready for the 15-round world's heavyweight championship match, which will be staged at the Garden Bowl in Long Island on June 25. Sharkey told me he weighed 202½ pounds on Wednesday afternoon, while he was up to 204 pounds on Thursday. The champion scaled 206 pounds for his winning bout with Max Schmeling. It is apparent Sharkey is already in splendid condition for his mill with Carnera.

"I met Gene Tunney at the Muldoon funeral," said Sharkey. "Gene was very friendly. He asked me how my left hook was working. I told him it was okay. You know it was my left hook that trapped Carnera in our last bout. Gene told me I would be down close to the ringside to see my title defense match."

Jim Corbett's Presence at Ringside Missed

It was the first important heavyweight bout I have attended where Jim Corbett was not at the ringside. Even when he was in very poor health last fall, Corbett, accompanied by Mrs. Corbett, was on hand for the Schmeling-Walker match. That was the last big bout Corbett witnessed before he was counted out by death.

California Gives Plenty of Cheer to Its Native Son

California gave Baer plenty of the support it failed to accord to former President Hoover. There were seven California sports writers at the ringside. They made the trip East hoping to see Baer land a laymaker on Schmeling's whiskers. Mark Kelly and the rest of the Coast delegation planned to remain in the East for the Sharkey-Carnera match.

The fact Dempsey was the promoter of the Schmeling-Baer old timer tended to give it additional color for Californians. The old timer has lived in Los Angeles a great deal in recent years. In fact he dropped a ton of money while owning the Barbara Hotel in Los Angeles. Dempsey never could say "no" and when he conducted the hotel all of his friends lived there on the cuff. There seldom was a vacant room for a paying guest.

1000 Degrees or So Under Ring Lights

I was glad neither Jack Malloy nor myself had to toss any punches as it was 1000 degrees or so under the ring lights. Some of the ladies who are so anxious to reduce should secure press row seats at a big fight on a warm night. I scaled 204 pounds entering Yankee Stadium, but started to drop tons of weight every second I was on the job. I found hitting the old portable as strenuous exercise as bag punching is to the ordinary fighter.

The good Col. Dave Green was a rather of perspiration as he hanged away at his portable. If there are any better places than the ringside at the Yankee Stadium, the colonel does not care even to read about them.

Random Shots at the Target

Jack Dempsey, Tim Mara and his other partners will cut up a profitable melon. The show was a financial success... The $10 ring seats were sold out by 7 p. m. ... Choice ringside seats which originally sold for $11.50, brought $30 each from the noble spec. ... Honest boys just must make a living... Everybody in Who's Who was at the ringside... Mara has regained some of his old poise and first since the stock market went sour... Incidentally Gene Tunney has been looking on in doings in Wall Street... He has been with the winning crowd, and has cashed in on some handsome profits.

Profits Score for Dempsey

New York, June 9.—Jack Dempsey's first N. Y. pre-promotional venture was a success, but, when Jack took the ring up, he may find that he didn't make a penny. It is said that his fighters instead of 50 per cent. for the bout for the stadium was 15 per cent. The preliminary bout, which was a success, netted 10 per cent. more than the main event. The California Cancer Hospital, which has been seeking $25,000, claimed not to him from Baer's fight. As a cross-complaint, Hoffman asked court not only to dismiss Hoffman's charges but to award him $10,000 damages for Hoffman's asserted failure to go through with certain agreements.

Go Draws $239,195

Victor Hits Low, Rabbit Punches in Rough Fray

By JACK CONWAY

New York, June 9.—Max Baer, a throwback to the old-time two-fisted fighters, knocked out Max Schmeling of Germany after 11 minutes 51 seconds of fighting in the 10th round of their bout at the Yankee Stadium.

A roaring crowd of 60,000 persons acclaimed Baer the greatest puncher in the heavyweight division after his terrific right hand punches had knocked every bit of fight out of Schmeling. The German was out on his feet, apparently beaten, when Referee Arthur Donovan halted the one-sided contest.

Baer, the fellow who does everything wrong while training and in the ring, had stopped the former champion. He had proved that the German's chin could not stand up under his mighty right hand. It was the old story of the puncher always having a chance to win. Schmeling was hitting well when the fight began. He was chopping the youthful Californian with his fists. Baer was Stalling and Walker. Then the puncher went in. Baer hit a right hand fly from nowhere. It landed flush on the forehead of the German. He said, "That punch did the trick. I was not expecting it." Baer's punches were numerous other punches.

Schmeling was hit a dozen more times before he went down for a count of nine, but he never did get up. Schmeling was hitting well when the fight began. He was chopping the youthful Californian with his fists. Baer was Stalling and Walker. Then the puncher went in. Baer hit a right hand fly from nowhere. It landed flush on the forehead of the German. Bam Steals Show cheer, too. But his particular job was to fight, and he couldn't give any more.

Baer had his right knee pulled back. If he had put it better, it would have landed at the base of Schmeling's brain. It might have completely ruined the German. Referee Arthur Donovan was quick to see the situation. He stepped in and halted the fight.

GERMAN HAD EDGE T'OK TO IT. It was Schmeling's turn to knock Baer down. The first, second and third rounds it was Schmeling's. He had scored the most points in his steady punching. Baer was the margin in the third, but he blew the round when he hit.

Baer did not worry a great deal about the rules of boxing. In addition to hitting low in the third round, he was guilty of back-kicking Schmeling on numerous occasions, while he also livened up the fight by chasing Schmeling several times with rabbit punches. A rabbit punch is a quick delivered blow to the base of the brain. Baer did not worry whether he was winning or losing any particular round. He felt that any time he was in the ring he had a chance in a knockout. The Californian shook up Schmeling on the first round, but it was not until the tenth round that he got the dynamite behind his right. The punch was perfectly timed, and once it landed it was merely a

TOUR OF THE WEST TO WATCH A. L. RACE—CRONIN

YANKS MAY TRIP ON TOUR, SAYS NAT PILOT

By JOE CRONIN
The word in the West is that the Eastern clubs, starting a week from Sunday, will come pretty close to telling the story of the current American League tug-of-war, in the opinion of Joe Cronin, big manager of the second-place Senators.

The Yankees, with their $14 game lead and tremendous power, appear to be sitting pretty, Joseph admits, but he insists that his Seneca, the White Sox, Athletics and Indians can be counted out of the running for another month, at the earliest.

"If you were wagering on the outcome of the pennant fight today, he would have to pick the Yankees to win, but don't forget that the New Yorkers failed to break even on their last swing through the West and may collapse in the open season again," chirps the astute Washington leader.

"There is more strength in the West than has been given a degree," The White Sox and Indians have been dangerous all season. The Tigers have struck their stride. The Browns can come pretty close to the top.

"Of course, neither my club nor the Braves is to be left out of the better than the Yankees out there, but if each of us can pick up a game or two on the road, the White Sox and Indians slip up. It will be my club's race."

Cronin is completely in about his pitching. His boys are saying and feeling well enough to be on the roof if he could find enough fingers capable of holding together.

He adds, though, that his pitchers have been unfortunate rather than fortunate. He says that if Lady Luck ever came smiting on them, he will be a lucky man.

He still asserts, as he did on his trip here, that managing doesn't hurt his work either at bat or at the plate, and the results of the major league struggle support him.

and—adding the blinding lights which had been down upon him best him. But he who saw the fight tight different.

It was that right hand of Max Baer's—his right hand that came out of nowhere in Babe Ruth's territory in right field and struck him on the button.

It was a technical knockout for Baer, who was not even in the ring for five minutes and fifty-one seconds of the tenth round of what was to have been a fifteen-round bout.

LITTLE PROFIT FOR JACK
Jack Dempsey, hailed as a second Joe, will be lucky if he breaks even on the fight, even though it is hailed as an artistic success, Dempsey promoter said before the battle that he would have in the net gain with the government's rate of 5 per cent deducted of $200,000 to pay all bills. The net fee amounted to $201,000.

Reckoning received 40 per cent of net, and Dempsey received $80,400. Baer's contract called for 10 per cent of the government fee, approximately $20,100.

ROUND BY ROUND IN THE RING'S UPSET OF THE CENTURY

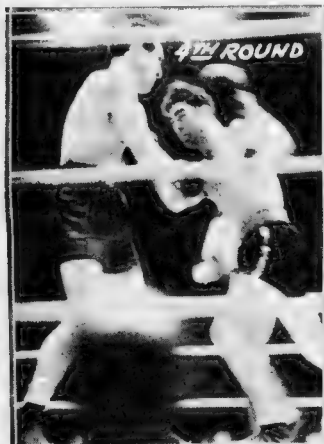

1ST ROUND
MAXES EXCHANGE LONG DISTANCE LEFTS WITH CAUTION

3RD ROUND
"WHOOIE!" SCHMELING SINKS LEFT WRIST DEEP IN BAER'S MIDRIF!
Plodding methodically inside, Schmeling staggered the one-time California butcher boy with a short jolting left hook to the stomach. The punch stung, as Baer's face amply shows. Baer missed two hard rights here.

4TH ROUND
SCHMELING SHEDS SCIENCE IN EFFORT TO CLOSE IN
In the fourth, Schmeling threw caution to the winds, stung by Baer's grinning, guffawing manner. Here's the Black Uhlan wide open, drying an overhand left to Baer's head.

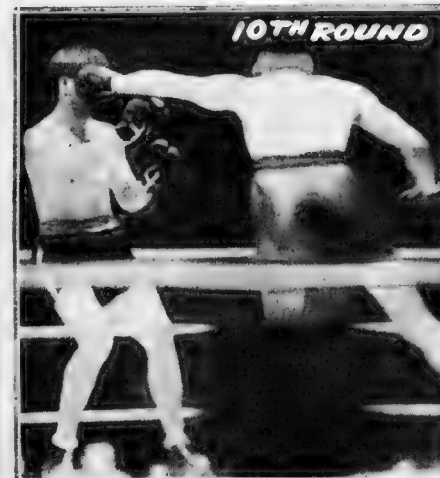

5TH ROUND
"HAW! HAW! I'LL GET YOU NEXT TIME," SAYS BAER
Throwing his right like a ball player, Baer misses his mark and his ham-like left goes swishing past Schmeling's guard. Schmeling's look shows it was too close for comfort.

6TH ROUND
A SIXTH ROUND MISDEMEANOR BY BAER
In the sixth, Baer got a little careless, looking for new places to land on Schmeling. Here Baer whips a low left under Schmeling's belt. It hurt.

9TH ROUND
MAXES EXCHANGE LEFTS WITH JARRING FORCE
Both heavyweights leaned solidly behind straight arm lefts as shown here. Baer's counter to Schmeling's having more force and more stunning effect.

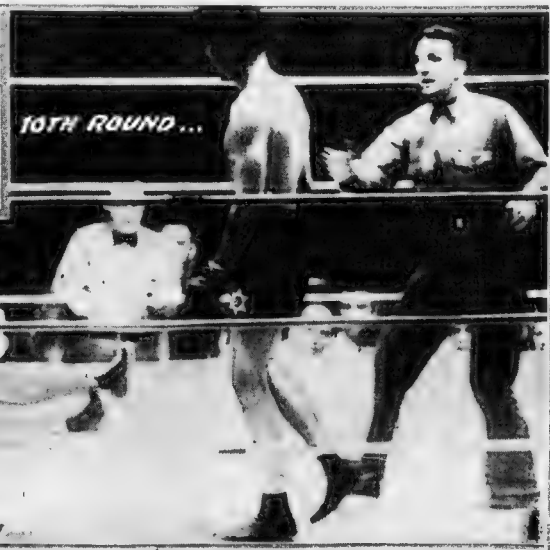

10TH ROUND
"AND HERE'S ONE FOR HITLER, MAX—TAKE IT WITH YOU!"

THE PUNCHER BEATS THE BOXER IN THE MOST DRAMATIC RING FINISH IN YEARS

When the ring mist cleared from Max Schmeling's head in the 10th, he found himself in his corner with Max Baer, his youthful opponent, backing in the applause of 65,000 wild-eyed fans. Referee Arthur Donovan has just awarded the fight on a technical knockout to Baer. It meant the end of the title road for Schmeling. Baer wants a shot at Sharkey now. The finish in the 10th round was the more dramatic because Schmeling was conceded to be far ahead on points, and Baer had only the "flying man's" chance to win with a single K.O. blow. He got his chance in the 10th when his left landed solidly. A right to the German's head ended the battle.

THE FINISH

Nothing Like a Row of 6's

By ARTHUR BUGS BAER

One thing we like about the material innovation is the man who borrowed $666.66.

That's a tidy sum and very neat bookkeeping.

It must have required a firm hand and a steady eye to have been able to become $666.66 or even $666.67.

You see are balancing the books and juggling the ink stand when you can throw six size like this.

He may be one of those unhappy characters who can knock the pin feathers of six size at a distance of 666 yards.
Or possibly, it may be a very wise decision. All he can read on an optician's chart are the sixes.

Either way it's a superb example of mathematical compound fractures.

We hope the senators aren't holding the paper upside down in that case it's $333.33.

versity of Chicago Press)
